(HOOPER & ELDREDGE BUILDING.)THE CHIEF OF THE NA-TION OF THE WILLOWS.

BY F. H. CUSHING.

The present head chief, Ko-hot, is nicknamed Navajo. He is a man of the most wonderful character. His portrait in profile, as I look upon it, and to the sketching of which he submitted with ease and pleasure, bears a remarkable likeness to Washington. I cannot forbear giving two instances of his judgment, which exemplify his fineness of justice, but at the same time his unrelenting will in any measure, however severe, for the good of his own people. When the Apache Mojaves were moved by government to San Carlos, one of them, discontented returned, through his former country, and after great suffering reached the home of the He-va-su-pai. He expressed his wish to live with the latter people to the end of his days. Ko-hot convened a council, and after long and fair deliberation concluded that it would be offensive to the Americans should he be harbored, and endanger his own people, leading ultimately, perhaps, to their removal as well. He therefore informed the Apache that, notwithstanding he was a member of a nation of enemies, he felt for him, but could give him the choice of but two alternatives,—return to San Carlos or death. The Apache, hoping Ko-hot would relent, replied that he might, but return to San Carlos he never would. Ko-hot arose, then and there, without one word, and struck him dead.

When the officers of the cavalry expedition called a council, and told Ko-hot that their mission was to determine the borders of his country for all time, and that it remained with him to decide how large it should be, he replied to the following effect: "My people live by their country and their river. They are small. Let your lines but include the river and the little plain we live on; for why should a small nation wish for a great country? There are many other nations in the world. Some one of them—the Americans, perhaps, for they are a great people, and talk of making boundaries where we have lived very well for all time without them—might try, some time, if it were large and indivisible, to take our country from us. Where would the He-va-su-pai go? To San Carlos, or to destruction?" And he would not permit the boundaries to be placed a step above the springs which feed his river, or a foot below where it leaps down into the pool under the limestone barrier.—October Atlantic.

FICTITIOUS PRICES

Webster defines the word "fictitious" thus: "Feigned; imaginary; not real; counterfeit; false; not genuine." Such is the character of the catalogue prices of pianos and organs, differing some in the enormity of the offense in proportion to the quality of the instruments; for be it understood that many of the cheapest made instruments are about the same on the catalogue as first-class ones. This condition is regretted by some of the leading makers, but they are powerless to change because many dealers insist on the present policy being continued, for the reason that it gives them a better chance to get high prices by making purchasers believe that in offering them a $1,000 piano for $650 or a $280 organ for $150, that they are giving immense bargains, when in fact the instrument may be exceedingly dear even at these seemingly very low prices. A business man in this city thinking that he could get a first class piano at the factory much cheaper than he could in this city, bought one shown him on the catalogue to him, with the understanding that he was to use his influence to effect sales among his friends. It was very disappointing to him when shown that I could have furnished the instrument for $425, with a reasonable profit to myself. Recently a lady had a piano selected for her in New York, at a cost of $600 delivered in this city, which she highly prized. The tuner did not convince her that she could have purchased the same class of piano by the same maker from me, for $360, that being the regular price. Many similar cases have come to my knowledge. I have just been offered by two different makers of pianos, who advertise very largely throughout the country: "75% octave, upright pianos, tri-., handsome rosewood case, all the latest improvements, and warranted for five years." for $110! Catalogue price $650. Who wants such a piano at any price? And yet they are sold in this Territory at $300 and upwards. Surely catalogue prices are a snare and a deception when used to reflect dealers prices as great bargains. My method of doing business is somewhat different to that of the trade generally. I buy the very best instruments of their class, at the lowest possible cash prices, and sell them on their merits. I carry no shoddy instruments. I have no "leaders" or catch price goods. I have no sliding scale of prices. I have but ONE PRICE TO ALL, which is plainly marked on all goods from a Jew's harp to a Concert Grand Piano. All my goods are precisely as represented.
